Price-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. Coll. Browns was undoubtedly the Inventor of Chlorodyne, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately universe, and he respected to say it had been sworn to.—Times, July 13, 1864.

Dr. J. Collis Browns's Chlorodyne.—The Right Hoz. Earl Russell. communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in cholora was Chlorodyne.—See Lancar, December 31, 1864.

Dr. J. Collis Browns's Chlorodyne, "In pracribed by scores of orthodox practitioners. Of course, it would not be thus simularly popular did it not 'supply a want and fill a place."—Manneal Times, January 12, 1866.

Dr. J. Collis Browns's Chlorodyne is the best and most certain remedy in coughs, coids, asthma, consumption, neuralgia, rheumatism, &c.

Dr. J. Collis Browns's Chlorodyne is the best and most certain remedy in coughs, coids, asthma, consumption, neuralgia, rheumatism, &c.

Dr. J. Collis Browns's Chlorodyne.—Caution.—Mons genuine without the words "Dr. J. MURRAY and LANMAN'S FLORIDA WATER MURRAY and LANMAN'S FLORIDA WATER over every other perfume. It is manufactured from fresh floral extracts, not from unwholesome chemical combinations intended to counterfeit their odours. Besitios being the most delicate and delightful of floral water, it has important sanitary recommendations. Its aroma relieves headache, prevents fainting its, promotes sleep, and soothest the nerves. Infused into the bath, it renders it more tavigorating and refreshing. Combined with water, it imparts whiteness to the teeth, preserves the cannel, and renders the gums hard and roay. No other toilet water retains its fragrance so long after contact with the atmesphere.

DIONEER KEROSENE OIL.—This superior Illuminating Oil obtained the first Prize Medal at the Melbourne Exhibition of 1867, and a Silver Medal from the Paris Exhibition of 1868. It burns with a clear light, free from smoke or smell. It is offered to the colenial public upon its merits, seeks only an unprejudiced irial. It should be popular because it is GOOD and CHEAP. Oil dealors and country storekeepers can save money by purchasing the Pioneer Kerosene issued of American—the oil is quite as good, and terms as liberal may be had. Buyers of large parcels especially should call at the "Pioneer Kerosene Oil Depot, King-street West, Sydney."

COOPER.

MONRO and CO.'S ROYAL IMPERIAL COOPER.

ROYAL IMPERIAL COOPER.

The College of Chemistry, Duke-street, Liverpool, 12th April, 1870.

Messra Monno and Co.—

The several exhaustive analyses of the various samples of your "ROYAL IMPERIAL COOPER" from three months to three years old, which I now send you, proves a most remarkable equality in the composition of this beverage; one of these samples having been submitted to a hoot of 80-Rahenhoit for eighteen months.

The ROYAL IMPERIAL COOPER has been most carefully made, and with good and pure materials. Its colour and flavour, combined with its singularly dry character, must make it popular as one of the best and purest of mail drinks.

Its ingredients show that it is calculated to produce the tonic and invigorating effects of the best beers. It is remarkably free from nitrogenous matter, and consequently not likely to be injund by a secondary fermentation, which is engendered in the generality of malt liquors exported to warm climates. Its per centage of skohol classes the ROYAL IMPERIAL COOPER among the strengest of she and porters. I can considently recommend its as a pure, wholescome, and stimulating malt liquor, and peculiarly sidepted for hot climates.

THE SPEARER took the chair at twenty-nine minutes past 3 o'clock.

Mr. SPEAKER announced the return of the writ issued for the election of a gentleman to sorve in the room of Joseph Eckford, Eq., whose seat had become vacant by reast of his insolvency. The writ announced the re-clection of Mr. Eckford.

AYMENTS—GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY.

Mr. BUCHANAN asked the Secretary for "Public Works,—"1. Is it true that the workmen on the Great Northern Railway have to wait from ten to twelve, and sometimes fourteen days, before they get their wages, after they become due? 2. Have the men employed on the Great Northern Railway memorialised the Minister for Works to have their wages paid more punctually, as it involves them in both inconvenience and loss, their wages being kept from them so long after they become due? 3. Was any reply sent to that memorial, and, if so, what was the substance of that reply? 4. Has the Government caused notices to be posted up in the various railway workshops to the effect that the men will in future be paid only once a month, instead of fermightly, as before, and what reasons have induced the Government to sdopt such a system in paying workmen's wages? "

Mr. SUTHERILAND snawered: 'At the commonoment of the year the men were not paid on several occasion until after a delay of from twelve to fourteen days, oring to the supplies having to be voted by the Assembly monthly. There is always a lapse of from seven to nine days after the men stime has been made up before they are paid; a wat this arrises from the necessity of transmitting by and this arrises from the necessity of transmitting by and this arrises from the necessity of transmitting voted the supplies having to be voted by the Assembly monthly. RESERVATION NEAR GOULBURN.

Commander ONSLOW asked the Secretary for Landa,—

"If he is aware that the piece of land reserved for the use of the public at the Crookwell River, near Goulburn, has been fenced in, and is used as a grazing paddeck by a private individual?"

Mr. ROBERTSON could only say, in reply to the hon, member, that he was entirely unaware of the fact, but had made inquiries. The officers of the Department had not been able to ascertian learly what reserve the hon, gentleman referred to, but if he would describe it on a slip of paper if would facilitate the inquiry. The only answer that could be furnished at present was, that he did not know where it was.

COURT-HOSSE BERRIMA.

Mr. SUTHERLAND said that no tender had been accepted, the amounts asked being so large. It was, however, under consideration of the Government whether it would not be advisable to erect a new building instead of repairing the old one.

CATTLE STEALING AT SCONE.

Mr. WISDOM asked the Hon. Colonial Secretary,—"Whether he could supply the information promised vesterday, in reference to the prisoner Heard, tried for cattle stealing at Scone, and whose pardon was recommended by the presiding Judge.

Mr. COWPER replied, that the issue of a pardon to James Heard, was recommended by one Judge and acted upon, but by some error one brother was discharged instead of the other. (Laughter.) It would be impossible to keep the other brother, who, he believed was liberated yesterday.

The Endney Morning Berald.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1870.

Is the Legislative Assembly, yesterday, Ministers, in answer to questions, said: That the workmen on the Great Northern Railway had to wait from ten to twelve days for their wages, owing to the pay-sheets having to be sent to Sydney; that the absence of an embankment at the back of the Volunteer Rifle range was a subject requiring consideration; that the Government were not aware what reserve at Crookwell was referred to in Commander Onslow's question; that no tender had been accepted for the repair of the Court-house at Berrima, as the price was too high; and that James Lear, convicted of horsestealing, had been recommended for pardon by the Judges, but by some mistake his brother had been liberated instead of himself—he had, however, been liberated on Thursday.

Mr. G. W. Allam brought up a report from the Committee of Elections and Qualifications, declaring
Mr. Horace Dean to be not duly elected, and Mr.
Robert Burdett Smith to be the sitting member.

Mr. R. B. Smith took the oath and his seat.

The Speaker called attention to the circumstances attendant upon this case. He had been called upon hurriedly to give a decision, and on the reading of the Constitution Act he had felt himself called upon by the report of the Committee to swear in Mr. Smith as a member of the House. But, reading over the 74th clause of the Electoral Act, he had some doubts whether, as the Committee had by the reason they had appended to their decision, actually disqualified Mr. Smith, he ought not to have been called upon to issue a new writ of election, and whether the Committee had not exceeded its powers by declaring Mr.
Smith to be duly elected.

Mr. Robertsox and Sir Jakes Martin offered some explanation of the grounds upon which the Committee had decided.

Mr. Wisdox, as a member of the Committee, offered some explanation of the grounds upon which the Committee had decided.

Mr. Garart rose to move the adjournment of the House, and declared that, in his opinion, the whole procedure was illegal, and that the Committee woul their decision.

Mr. Wisdom pointed out that the portion of the clause referred to by the Speaker, which provided for the issue of a new writ, had been inserted in order to meet the case where no person petitioned to be declared duly elected in place of the person disqualified. Mr. Smith, however, had petitioned not only that Mr. Dena should be declared not the sitting member, but that he should be so declared. This petition had been referred as a whole to the Committee, and they had been bound in duty to report on the whole of it, and to report as they had done.

Mr. Buchanan mentioned cases which had occurred

Mr. Buchanan mentioned cases which had occurred in the British Parliament where a member was declared to be disqualified, and the person who had the next highest number of votes was declared to be the sitting member.

Mr. ROBERTSON regarded this matter as one that infringed upon the right of the people to elect their representatives. It was virtually placing the power of election in the hands of a committee instead of in that of the electors, and representation would in time become a negre force.

of election in the hands of a committee instead of in that of the electors, and representation would in time become a mere farce.

Mr. W. Forster, after an examination of the Act, believed that the Committee could have come to no other decision than they had done; at the same time he protested against the correctness of the assertion of Mr. Allen that the disqualification of Mr. Dean was an admitted fact, The disqualification of Mr. Dean was after all a mere question of law, and many eminent lawyers held directly contrary opinions with regard to it.

Sir James Martin declared Mr. Smith to be deserving of the thanks of the community for having spent his time, his talents, and his money, in preventing an alien from keeping a seat in this House, and from making laws for a community of which he was not a member.

Mr. S. C. Brown thought that the point raised by the Speaker was one that required some consideration; for it was certainly a matter of much doubt whether the Committee had not exceeded their powers.

Mr. Winderver insisted that it was a matter of very great importance that care should be taken that seats in this House should not be held by any but citizens of the country, or by persons who had been legally | ment by other means under penalty of £500.

Mr. C. STREETEN said that all this trouble seemed to ant. C. Stierens said that all this trouble seemed to have arisen from the Committee having given a reason for the decision they had come to. Whatever might be said, he cenectived that there was nothing in the Act to prevent the Committee from giving reasons for their decision; and he believed that the House would con-sider it far more satisfactory that reasons should be given than that they should not.

Mr. Parkers considered that the present hon. member for the Hastings held his seat as legally as any other hon. member; and it was for the House to guard the electors from being cajoled or from falling into error.

After some further remarks from Mr. R. Porster, Mr. Bettier, and Mr. Phodinoton, Mr. Garrett replied, and the question was put and negatived.

Te titions were presented—by Mr. Lloyn, from Newcastle, in favour of the Right Hours' Bill: and by Mr. Cowren, from J. D. Lang, in favour of the annexation of Fiji to New South Wales.

A bill to regulate the admiring of Valence and the second of the complete of the second of the complete of the second of t

A bill to regulate the admission of Volunteers wa brought in by Mr. W. Forster, and was read a first time. Leave was also given to the same gentlema to bring in a bill to regulate rights at law and i

Motions were agreed to, ordering to be laid on the table copies of certain documents in possession of the Council of Education; and for going into Committee to consider the desirability of amending the Limited Manine Partnership.

The petitions from Camden and from Mrs. Jane simpson were ordered to be printed. Impson were ordered to be printed.

The Cumberland and Camden Bathurst Burr and Thistle Bill was read a second time, and wa mitted.

The bill was considered down to clause 4, and was verbally amended in several particulars, and the House resumed.

The House adjourned at twenty-one minutes past 9, until 3 o'clock on Tuesday next.

THE Government of this colony has very pro-perly considered that it is right to sustain the neutrality of the parent State in reference to the war, and it is with this intention that the bill now before the Legislature has been pro-posed. It is, however, questionable whether it would not have been better to wait until we have been thoroughly acquainted with the exact operation of new views in England of neutral obligations, which ought, if important, to have reached us even by the wire. A steamer may be lost with the mail between King George's Sound and Port Jackson. Some Act of Parliament either exists, or may be expected, which may afford a model to supply any deficiency existing in the coloni

The powers which the new bill proposes to confer upon the Government are very large. We have no desire to impose any restriction on the powers really necessary for the fulfilment of the public obligations. So far as we understand Lord Granville's despatch, dated the 19th of July, which came by way of America, and which we give in another column, the subjects of the QUEEN may sell any article common use to merchant ships, and leaves to them the common risks war, should they be captured by either of the war, should they be captured by either of the belligerents in the prosecution of this trade. The restrictions upon the supply of ships of war belonging to the belligerents are clearly stated:—Whenever they arrive at any port or roadstead under the Queen's jurisdiction. they will be required to quit within twenty-four hours; and any vessel belonging to either belligerent, whether of war or not, that may be in port at the same time shall have twenty four hours to escape. It is to these last ships only that a limitation is applied as to carrying coal and provisions, and such other things as are requisite for the subsistence of the crew. The continuance of the coal trade with France, so necessary to facilitate its industry, has not, we believe, been interrupted in England. Such is the statement which has reached us. We should gather, from the reached us. We should gather, from the letter of Lord Granville to the Lords of the Treasury, that there is nothing to hinder an English merchant ship from going to France or to any part of Germany to deliver coal as an article of merchandise. There is a prohibition against any British subject enlisting, or actually taking part in the military enterprises, or doing anything that is directly intended to assist either party against the other. It may be possible for a merchantman to carry coals to for a merchantman to carry coals to France, and she may make them subservient trance, and sae may make them subservient to the purposes of war. But this is not the object of neutral care. These may not be, however, for any such purpose, and so long as the purpose is not shown and manifest, as we understand it, the possible destination of coals could hardly be a subject of restriction. If a vessel of war comes into the port to obtain supplies, it is entitled to have a certain quantity. According to the explanations of Lord Granville, that quantity may be repeated every three months, at the discretion of the neutral Government. The restrictions are not founded upon obligation or treaty. The refusal to supply coals to ships of war, except in measured quantities, and after certain intervals, is clearly due to the belief that it may give an advantage to one to the danger and injury of another. But the Government retains a right to judge what is proper, but not to extend its discretion beyond ships of war. It must be understood that a ship carrying contraband of war is not, on that account, subject to penalties, ex-cept for specific acts. It is liable, ac-cording to the laws of war, to capture for carrying contraband of war. The party making a capture cannot, however, according to Lord Granville, carry it into a British to Lord Granville, early it into a British port; nor can any vessel taken as a prize be brought into the ports of England. Thus the fact that coals may be treated as contraband of war only affects the liability to capture and

The power given by the bill to our Govern ment to stop exportation of all articles that may be in its judgment calculated for mischief may be in its judgment calculated for mischief is certainly very great, and we think unusual. A recent British Act gives power to the SECEFARY OF STATE to stop any vessel supposed to be meant for war by a peremptory order, to prevent the mischief of that delay which enabled the Alabama to escape. But we do not think so large a discretion as that conveyed by our bill would be given by the Parliament in England, since it would convey to the Ministry of the day the power to stop any ship, whatever her cargo. Such a discretion might be used to favour a particular firm at the expense of another.

given by the Parliament in England, since it would convey to the Ministry of the day the power to stop any ship, whatever her cargo. Such a discretion might be used to favour a particular firm at the expense of another.

The requirement of the bill, that, under a penalty of £500, the shipper or captain shall be bound to produce proof that the cargo have been delivered at the port to which it was chartered seems to be also objectionable, sing the law requires a proof which it is pt in the power of the shipper to demisd. Imperial law, prevailing through the wole Empire, can secure these guarantees as far as the QUEEN's ports are concerned, bt it cannot assure them in any other centry, Supposing there is no party to give a cerficate, supposing there is no party to give a cerficate, supposing none will give it, and suposing proof is made to lie upon the shipps, who may have no right to demand it, by is he to meet the requirements of the law Then.

The requirement of the bill, that, under a penalty of £500, the shipper or captain shall be bound to produce proof that the cargo have to that measure. In the fifth, there are the usual articles of offensive and defensive alliance between the two nations. How the Times got possession of this Treaty is still unexplained; but it is generally supposed that it was communicated through the Prussian Kowe engages to facilitate the /rench acquisition of Luxemburg. In the third the Experd acquiseces in the union of North and South German States, Austria excepted. In the fourth, France finding it necessary to absorb Belgium, Prussia lends her assistance to that measure. In the fifth, there are the usual articles of offensive and defensive alliance between the two nations. How the Times got possession of this Treaty is still unexplained; but it is generally supposed that it was communicated through that it was communicated through the Prussian Government, for the purpose of exciting English feeling against the treachery of France. In the Mouse of Commons, Mr. GLADSTONE stated the pr t is still indefinite as to what shall be held as satisfactory. We leave so much open that either law must be stretched or it must become inoperative.

We think, therefore, that this bill will require considerable amendment to make it compatible with Imperial legislation, the compatible with Imperial legislation, the course of affairs, and the practice of Great Britain. Both in England and the colonies—where there is a great trade in coal—where the great mass of coal is used for domestic and manufacturing purposes— where its employment in the services of war is infinitesimally small compared with its general use—it is of great importance to know what is the proper mercantile limit. It is not the duty of an English subject to assist one the duty of an rugues subject to assist one friendly Power against another by any active co-operation; but it surely is not the duty of the coal trade to relinquish a pursuit which may be incidentally connected with the operations of was but only in a degree so small tions of war, but only in a degree so small tions of war, but only in a degree so small and so remote, and forming so inconsiderable a portion of all the interests involved. It is highly important to us, having such a large interest in coal mining, to understand clearly what the law is to be, and under what conditions export is prohibited. The clause in reference to the TREASURER administering the oath requires to be more precise. Does it give power to examine upon each the person who power to examine upon oath the person who may be charged with not having delivered imay be charged with not having delivered these goods at their alleged destination? Is this affidavit to form part of the evidence for or against him, upon the suit of the ATTORNEY GENERAL for the fine? This bill hardly distinguishes a witness from a misdemeanant. No doubt, no man is called upon to criminate himself; but we are not sure that this maxim of law would fully meet the case. To lay the onus of proof as to the delivery upon the shipper, who may not have any actual control in the affair, is contrary to the ordinary idea of justice. He has to meet a demand for indefinite proof within a limited time, and to make it satisfactory to particular minds; and he may find factory to particular minds; and he may find he is liable to a fine of £500, for an offence he is liable to a fine of £500, for an offence which may be subsequently extracted from his evidence. A few lines, no doubt, would make all this clear, but they are wanting.

We are prepared for any sacrifice whatever that may be demanded for the safety of the Empire, or in fulfilment of its obligations; but in adopting restrictions, we certainly car have no better guide than Great Britain; and need not extend them one degree beyond what is required by the clearly expressed proclamations and laws of the Empire.

THE telegram via Suez, now hourly expected, will clear up much that has been left doubtful in the intelligence received by the other route, and will do something to satisfy the intense curiosity that exists as to the prospects of the two belligerents in a war which, more than anything that has happened since the Treaty of Vienna, will probably affect the salance of power in Europe. The American papers received via California are filled with daily telegraphic statements purporting to give European public opinion, and the condition of facts, day by day. Many of them are obviously unreliable, and some are contradictory. Those that profess to give the intentions of the belligerent to give the intentions of the belligerent Powers are the results of mere conjecture. as, so far from being at all communicative, each Government is exerting itself to the utmost to secure secrecy, and, as a rule, correspondents are forbidden in either camp. The New York Tribme, however, has a correspondent whose laters are published; but whether he is wift the army by permission, or is evading the rule, does not appear. He writes from the French side, and, so far, he is the only direct authority on the condition and position of the French force. This writer has traversed the line of the Freich front. traversed the line of the French front, from Strasburg to Thionville; and his account shows that a large orce was collected there, and that the French were especially strong on their left wing. His own pression was that the Emperor intended make an advance into the Rhuish territory in the direction of Mayence, and he express his opinion that in the first pattle the od would be immensely in favour of France. based this opinion partly of the idea that the Prussians could no have effected the Prussians could no have effected such a concentration of strength as the French had done, and that the French cannon and rifls were superior to the Prussian. The London Times, which is strongly in the interet of Prussia, also expressed an opinion that it would be obliged to chronicle Prussian reverses at obliged to chromete Prussian reverses at first, owing to the syerior preparations and efficiency of the Fench army, and that Prussia required at least another fortnight to get altogether in readinesss. These anticipations, expressed only a few days before the Prussian advance, show that, if Napoleon himsel was deceived, he was not the only one in hat condition. The corres-pondent referred to states that the Prussians had massed ther principal strength on their own right between Treves and Saarbrucken, and were expeted to enter France, if the took the initiatve at all, from that quarter, and took the initiate at all, from that quarter, and that to oppose them the French had massed their principal strength on their left wing. Instead of that the attack began at the other end of the line, and by massing great strength there, the French right wing was bent ad broken off,—a movement which, for the tire, prevents the invasion of Prussia, and transers the war to French soil. Whichever pay, however, plays the invader has the greater difficulties to contend with; and it may penaps fare better with France in the long run t have been forced to act on the defense.

The telegrams to America give some particulus as to the alleged secret treaty. The Ties of the 25th of July gives the five articles of this treaty. In the first, NAPOLEON addits and recognises the late acquisitions of Prussia from Austria. In the second, se Prussian Kine engages to facilitate the had not been received. In the meanwhile, had not been received. In the meanwhile, there had appeared French denials of its authenticity, and the Journal Officiel, in an article on the subject, on the 27th, states that after the Treaty of Prague, in 1866, several conferences were held at Berlin between Count Von Bismarck and the French Ambassador, on the subject of the proposed alliance. Some of the ideas set forth in the Times were then advanced, but the French Government never had any knowledge of the Government never had any knowledge of the project described, and so far as relates to the propositions which were discussed at the inter-views mentioned, the EMPEROR rejected them. rance, therefore, throws the responsibility of this suggested reconstruction of the map of Europe on Prussia, and claims the merit of having resisted the temptation.

On the other hand, Count Bernestoff, the Prussian Ambassador, makes a public state-ment on the 29th to the effect that France, in 1866, offered to send Prussia 300,000 men to use against Austria if Prussia would surrender to France the territory between the Rhine and the Moselle—that the rejection of this proposition awoke EMPEROR'S sympathy with Austria, and that these offers which NAPOLEON finds it convenient to repudiate have been repeated since

On the 31st of July the Berlin Auzeiger publishes an official circular addressed by Count BISMARCK himself on the 27th to the representatives of Prussia at the Courts of neutral Powers. This document, coming from the arch-diplomatist himself, contains the following statement:—

"Before the Danish war, the French legation at "Before the Danish war, the French legation at Berlin urged an alliance between France and Prussia for mutual aggrandisement. France, anticipating the consequence of the Danish war, made overtures for the relative restoration of the Luxembourg frouter of 1814, the acquisition of Saarbrucken and Laudou. In the settlement of the boundary question the basis of language was not to be excluded. In May, 1866, the offer took the form of propositions for alliance offensive and defensive. The manuscript, the original of which is in the Foreign Office, for these propositions, is as follows:—
"First Should the Congress of Powers agree, Italy should have Venice, and Prussia the Duchies [Schleswig and Holstein].
"Second. Should the Congress disagree, an alliance offensive and defensive should be made between Prance and Prussia.
"Third. Prussia should open hostilities within ten ance offensive and defensive should be made between France and Prussia.

"Third. Prussia should open hostilities within ten days after a dissolution of the Congress.

"Fourth. Should no Congress meet, Prussia to attack Austria within thirty days after the signature of the Representatives.

"Fitth. Napoleon to begin hostilities against Austria as soon as Prussia begins, dispatching 300,000 men during the first month, across the Rhine.

"Sixth. No separate treaty shall be formed by either Power with Austria; when a joint treaty is made the following are to be the conditions:

"1. Venetia to go to Italy.

"2. Prussia to select German territory at will for annexation, the number of inhabitants not to exceed 8,000,000 souls; the territory thus acquired to become a part of the kingdom of Prussia within the Federal rights.

"3. France to have a liberal share of the Rhine

"3. France to have a liberal share of the Rhine

"Seventh. A military or maritime alliance may be made between France and Prussia, to which Italy may be a party should she so desire.

"The programme, the circular states, was rejected in June, 1866, in spite of the threatening energy of France. The proposals were immediately renewed with modifications, sacrificing South Germany, but they were never scriously entertained by Prussia. For the sake of peace, however, it was thought best to leave Napoleon to his delusions.

"No word implying approval was returned.

"Time was counted on to revolutionise France, and extinguish the scheme; hence the long delay and allence.

"The attempt against Luxembourg failing, France repeated her propositions, making the specifications clear in regard to the acquisition of Belgium by France, and South Germany by Prussia. The last propositions were formed by Count Benedotte himself, and it is improbable that he wrote them without the authority of the Emperor, as they are the same which were made four years ago under threat of war, as the alternative of their refusal.

"Any one acquainted with these antecedents must have known had Prussia acquiesced in the seizing of Belgium, France would soon have found another Belgium in Prussian territory."

This is a positive disclaimer on the part of Count BISMARCK of having been the author of the suggestions. He puts the initiative on France, represents the Engagement initiative on France, represents the EMPEROE as not only urgent, but as threatening war in case of refusal, and his own Government as simply silent and unacquiescent. But Count BISMARCK'S cunning and duplicity have been such as to make it impossible to repose perfect reliance on the truthfulness of his representations.

The French reply to this statement from high quarters has yet to appear, and we may probably receive it by the incoming mail. Anyhow it is clear that the two diplomatists did adjr's stores, and the fermented liquors duly cup their neighbour's territory for their own aggrandisement, and they only failed to come to an understanding because they could not agree as to the distribution of the spoil. In now asking the world to admire their disinterested virtue they may not receive all the credit they are asking for the countries of the co credit they are asking for.

SUPREME COURT.-Business this day.-Last ounding Act.

Mary M. Allister, deceased; Ex-parte M. Gowan, prohibition, Impounding Act.

The Exhibition.—The interest of the colonists in the great intercolonial display in Alfred Park is maintained in a manner that could soarcely have been hoped for by its most sanguine promoters. Although near the dose of the fourth week, the attendance of visitors daily still averages considerably more than a thousand. Yesterday there were upwards of that number during the day, and the evening about two thousand five hundred persons were in the building, which presented as brillant an appearance as on any previous occasion. Another vocal and instrumental concert was given during the evening, the vocalists being Mesars. Skinner, Gooch, and Wilkie, Miss Wisseman and Miss Thomas. Mr. Packer played upon the great organ, and the German band gave some lively and agreeable instrumentation. At a meeting of the Exhibition Committee yesterday it was resolved that certificates should be prepared to accompany the whole of the prises in the agricultural department; that the 200 cards now printed be issued for the agricultural department; and that the Exhibition should be closed at 12 p.in. on Friday act. On Monday next, Mr. Gale is to make another ascent in his balloon, when it is hoped that, by a supply of gas, specially prepared, the acrial machine will be so light as to enable the seromant to take a passenger or two on the voyage. For the ploughing matches, which are so take places at the Victoria Park, on Tuesday next, a large number of entries have been received. The gates were sold yesterday by Dawson and Co., to Mr. Merrett, for the sun of £113.

PROPOSED PYRMONT REGATTA.—A meeting of the residents of Pyrmont favourable to the holding of a regatta at that place took place last night, at the Royal Oak Hotel, Pyrmont. Mr. Walters was voted to the chair, and that gentleman briefly stated that Mr. Brown and himself had taken the subject in hand, and he had no doubt that they would be able to get up a good half-day's sport. He was very sorry to see that the residents of Balmain had since decided to hold the Snall's Bay regatts on the same day as Mr. Brown and himself had previously settled upon, but he was not afraid of anything they might do. On the motion of Mr. T. M. Brown, it was arranged that the proposed regatts should take place on Saturday, the 29th number, was then formed, out of which Mr. T. M. Brown was elected secretary, and Mr. Walters treasures. A programme, comprising ten events, was then discussed and adopted, and it was decided that the prizes should be equal in all the races, and according to the amount of subscriptions received; entrance fee to be 2s. 6d. It was also suggested to add a race for ladies, but the further consideration of the matter was left over until a future moeting. The chairman then opened a subscription list, and the gentlemen present gave in their names for suns amounting to £10. Each of the committee was provided with lists for the purpose of collecting donations from his friends. The meeting then adjourned.

SREEF INSPECTORS.—A return shewing the names and salaries of the sheep inspectors has been printed by order of the Legislative Assembly. The following is the substance of the return:—Alexander Brace, Sydney, Chief Inspector of Sheep, £500; Deputy Registrar of Brands. £50; total, £550. Herbert Perkins, Sydney, Clerk, £100. The following are the total salaries received by the officers undermentioned, including £25 in each case as Depaty-Registrar of Brands:—N. P. Lockhart, Albury, £375; John M-Leod, Balranald, £375; T. L. P. Croaker, Bathurst, £175; James Aldorru, Berrima and Braidwood, £76; James Horsfall, Bourke, £276; John S. Brown, Dubbo, £275; George Rowlands, Carcont, £175; Thomas S. Swindells, Casino and Grafton, £75; Stewart Byrie, Cooms, £275; John Kennedy, Coonsbarabran, £175; Ephraim Howe, Corowa, £225; Robert Tapholme, Danilquin, £276; J. T. Tresilians, £6den, £225; James Nichal, Forbes and Molong, £175; A. R. Fraser, Glen Innas. £276; F. M. Charteris, Guilburn, £175; A. Centauri, Gundagai, £175; John Fairbairn, Hay, £375; Thomas Burnass*, Maitland, £275; J. N. Wilkinson, Menindia, £275; John Roper, Merriwa, £175; Robert Wood, Madges, £176; John Ducat, Fort Macquarie, £75; Edward Alford Singleton, £176; Gorden Bruce, Upper Murray, £225; C. J. Brentnall, Wagga Wagga, £275; J. W. Jones, Walgett, Pilliga, and Narrashr, £175; F. W. Ridley, Warialda, £276; A. McVlymont, Wentworth, £376; G. A. Cleeve, Windsor, £276; Thomas Turnar, Yass, £175; C. C. Wildash, Young, £175. The actorists denote that the officers are inspectors of cattle as well as of therp. Besides the above, boundary-riders are employed occasionally on the River Murray, at salaries varying from £130 to £150 a-year.

Great FLOOD At Wentworth—Some few days ago we reported that the flood at Wentworth was higher than any previously known since the occupation of that part of the country. The waters have been steadly rising ever since; and from the tenor of tolegrams rocested yesterday, we believe that the whole town is in immunent danger of being s SHEEP INSPECTORS.-A return shewing the

FLOATING BATTERY.—The model of a floating shield battery, for coast and harbour defences, construeded and designed by Captain Beatson, was on view yusterday in Greville's Commercial Room. Its shape is not very easily described, but were it not rather too high, in comparison to its length, it might be explained by the familiar ingure of a round tood shoe, with the hede ut square of above the instep. At the toe or apox of the battery are twe embrauers for heavy cannon. The centre of the battery is open from the hindsypart, so as to grotteet and give admission to the steamer that may be such for towing purposes—such steamer to be attached to the battery by chains. On both sides of the battery, and stimated under the water line, are shot and shell rooms towards the toe of the model, and to the rear the powder magazines. Over the magazines are the light rooms. In the instep, or more elevated portion of the model, is the pilot's block-out station, from which a view of all points is obtainable, and so which there is access by a ladder from the gua floor. The side of the battery is formed of an outer casing of iron one foot in thickness, backed by two feet of timber. The following description of the model and its advantages accompany it as explanatory, as does also a sectional plan. In speaking of other means of hardbour defence, Captain Beatson, its inventor, says that his model obtained and its fill distinct that they may have presented. First, from its form a believes the battery capable of resisting any known description of shot or shell hurled against it; that the men engaged is working the guns will be perfectly safe from an enemy's fire; that it will cost little for construction, and draw little water; that it will cost little for construction, and draw little water; that it will cost CEMETERIES [REGULATION BILL.-A general CEMETERIES [MEGULATION BILL.—A general meeting of the trustees of the conseivers at the Necrophis was held at the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday, to consider the bill which was introduced into the Logislative Assembly, on the 16th instant, by Mr. W. Forster. Mr. Josiah Mullens occupied the chair. The gentlemen present thought it advisable that before the trustees entered into any discussion on the merits or demerits of the measure, the views of the Government with regard to it should be accertained. A deputation, consisting of the Hon. S. D. Gordon, Mr. J. Westne, Mr. J. R. Fairfax, Mr. Phillips, Mr. G. Thornton, Mr. Cohen, Mr. Crane, and Mr. S. E. Pearce, was appointed to wait upon the Hon. THE SEIZED STEAMER.—By the Wagga Wagga Advertiser of the 21st instant, it is stated that the seizers of the steamer Providence on the Murrumbidges, which created such a sensation in Wagga Wagga last Friday, has after all ended in smoke, or something very like it. The supercargo appeared before the Bench on Saturday to answer the charges of unlawfully hawking, and of expecting for sale fermented and apprituous liquors without holding a license. In the first case the offence was clearly proved, and a fine of £10 was inflicted; but the second charge failed, the evidence showing that the spirits were ship s stores, and the fermented liquors duly consigned, a portion to Mr. John Clark, of the Commercial Hoid, and the remainder to Mr. G. A. Elliott, for sale by auction.

Throughout this, as on previous weeks, they have attracted good houses. The clever gynnastic and equestrian fasts of the trained dogs under the tutalege of Miss Gertrade, never fail to elicit expressions of admiration and approval from the audience. Miss Gestrade's daring set salpino performances on the fiying trapose, in company of her brother John, are nightly rewarded with renewed applauss. Aftert dragory riveted the eage attention of the onlockers by the clever manner in which he made the spiral globe ascent an descent from the pit and roof of the theatre. The setter the educated ponies (one of them an exceedingly small one) form a very pleasing feature in the programma. Miss Besse dragory was frequently encored last night for her delivery of a number of songa-serio-comic and characteristic. The entertainment was brought to a clear with a highly diverting pantomime. MAJOR's CREEK.—From the Dispatch we also learn tha Mr. Langdon, of Araluen, during his recent visit to Sydney submitted a parcol of 12 lbs. weight of stone which was raised at a depth of 80 fact from Ellis and Co.'s claim at Major's Creek, in which he is a sharchddor. As will be remembered the stone which he was created from this claim, like all the other claims on Wilson's load, was very rich, but at 00 feet the stone run cut. Below this, however, stone of a precisely similar appearance to that called rausaits these from Wilson's shart was gone through for hearly 30 feet, and the parcel taken to the Mint was what was considered a fair sample of the stone raised. The supers of the Mint assay gives a return at the rate of 3 cs. 18 dwts. 4 grs. of gold, and 5 cs. 1 dwt. 1 gr. of silver to the ton, and 14-6 per cent. of lead. Mr. Langdon could obtain no santifactory information in Sydney as to the best mode of extracting and separating these minerals from the stone, but if the sample operated upon be a fair sample of the rect, the ore would pay handsomely to ship to Bangland in its native states. The rect from which the stone was taken is about sighteen inches wide. This (Wilson's line of rect) instead of ranning out as it was supposed it had in some of the claims is likely to prove very valuable if further returns ilke the above can be obtained. The Contemporary machine at Bell's Creek. There are now in all (including Chynochles, on the read) eleven crushing mill mill district. This speaks volumes for the progress in the extension of quarteresting in anything like the same ratio during the next twelve months, if we progress in the extension of quarteresting in anything like the same ratio during the next twelve months, if we progress in the extension of quarteresting in anything like the same ratio during the next twelve months, if we commenced work on last Monday (the little state) in the shade.

The correspondent of the Liberal ways:—On the 19th instant, the only scrap of news I have to report is the starting of Messrs. Atkinson and Co.'s new crushing mill, we mill of fifteen examplers, is again at full work, having had the shaft repaired. It from Duke' thereon, has been heisted on the engine-house. THE WEATHER, AGRICULTURE, &c.

THE WEATHER, AGRICULTURE, &c.

Froughthe Macleay we learn by the Herald of the 16th instant that since last issue the weather has, up to the time of going to press (excepting Wednesday evening when some slight showers fell) been very fine, the days being sunshiny and warm, the nights moonlist and cold. The grass has not yet made any great show, but on the disappearance of Irott (which has occurred about the middle of nearly every night during last week) will no doubt advance rapidly. The grass on the stations up the river is very good, considering the time of year. Some of the farmers are beginning to cry out for rain, to assist them in ploughing operations, the ground being in many places hard and taked by the action of the sun.

The wheat sown at Brooks' Flat and Mount Vincent is reported by the Maciliand Mercary to be looking very well. There is unfortunately not a very large quantity of land under cultivation, as the flood water was retained for too long a time on the land to allow of much ploughing to go on at the time for sowing whost. Farmers are now busy there ploughing for make.

At Glen lunes (mays the Armidale Express of the 17th instant) the weather has been fine, with cold winds at times. We had only one alight frost during the week. Spring is coming in rapidly. Our farmers and gardeners are making the most of the fine days, and working hard to pull up lost time. The Inversal correspondent remarks on the 12th that the weather is all that rould be desired, with bright sunny days, and an equable evening temperature control, and donned the green garments of spring. Those capses, and donned the green garments of spring. Those capses, and donned the green garments of spring. Those capses, it is a are sanguine of the crops, and proprietors of pasture Im. as are sanguine of the crops, and proprietors from the sunds are sanguine of being able to show a good percentage in the lambing, which has just commenced.

From the Upper Bogas, we learn by the Dubbe Dispatch of the 16th that there has been fine drying weather this week till to-day, when clouds appeared, and rain is falling as I am writing. The roads, though still bad, are something better, and rations are going down to the stations. The bash is still boggy, and it is hard to get fat stock. On the Barwin the weather still contiguous line, with occasional thunder showers. Heavy rains must have fallon in the Queensland and New England districts, as the Moonie, Balonne, and Barwin upwards have overflowed their banks to a considerable extent. Roport says they are much higher than in 1864. The river hore is rising fast. At Wellington there have been some pleasant spring showers, and the rivers were swollen on the 14th.

At Forbes (eays the Times of the 17th) Saturday last was a cold, bleak day, with occasional equalls of heavy rain and wind. Since then, however, we have had beautiful weather up to to-day (Friday), when the sky once more became ouercast, and one or two slight showers fell. The clouds still hang about, but we hope that they will disperse without another pluvial visitation. 8.30 p.m. Steady rain has set in, with every appearance of continuing all night.

The Carcoar correspondent of the abovenance paper says.—We have not had much rain during the last week or o. In fact, the weather, spend that he roads continue to improve, it is to be hoped quite equal to those of former years. The west season introduced some foot-rot, which I am happy to say has now completely disappeared. In matters pastoral therefore, as well as agricultural, our prospects are better than we had at one time expected.

In the Yass district, observes the Courier of the 20th instant, a heavy shower fell yesterday, the only downpour of any account for ten days past. It had the effect of making the streets excessively sloppy. We have heard complaints from some farmers that the late sown wheat is lying very dead in the pround, and that such as has penetrated the soil is thin and sickly looking.

In the correspondence of the Giomagni Times, 17th instant, it is reported from Tamut, that the foremon of Thursday, the 8th instant, presented a very threatening aspect, and although the sun broke through the christ clouds, yet after a time its rays were obscured by denser vapours in method the cast, and the rain fell heavily and continued to descend all night and all next day, and continued to descend all night and all next day, and continued to descend all night and all next day, and continued to descend all night and all next day, and continued to descend all night and all next day, and continued to descend all night and all next day, and presently submerged the flats adjacent to its banks, attaining its full height of stant, the river begand that this overflow of the river has deep some of the height of the flood we had about two months ago. A corresponder writes to the Pastoral Times, on the 31st ultime, from he Bogan:—Rain, rain—such rain, never was before by man, black or white, on the Bogan—nearly six bonths of it, but we now have fine weather, which I how will continue for some time, though not too long.

never was been by man, black or white, on the Bogan-nearity six kenths of it, but we now have fine weather, which I hot will continue for some time, though not too long.

From Urans it is repried in the Wagga Wagga Express of the 21st instant:—be have again been favoured with a week of good weather and shearing will soon become general. At Brockongit commenced on Tuesday; at Cooning and Urangelimit is going on as well as could be expected, considering the unantity of rain that has fallen. The Billabong has been hear this week than it has been this season. At Mr. Mannor's station the water has been in the men's huts, an it has been running into this creek from the Billabong feithe last three mouths.

At Bathurst, says the A. Press of the 21st.—During the last week the weather as fine, pleasant, and springlike; the reads were become dry and in many of the worst places passable; and segment and growing crops monifested symptoms of nearly and in many of the morning the grade of the continued to fall dring the afternoon and verening.

From Wyallah (in the Northmosal district) it is reported in the Clearence Examens, under date the 5th instant, that the weather had been have cleared up. THE FOREST REEPS.

[IRCM A CLIMESTONDERT.]

To a stranger visiting the Forcat Reefs, which are situated bindwey between Orange and Curear, about twelve miles fir in each town, and amidst assume free-selections, the place does not look more than a meath old, so listle has teen done in the crection of buildings or in the progress of maining, whereas a majority of the claims have been worked at for upwards of five meaths.

There are two payable claims in Osborne's Faddock—the prospecting claim and No. 1 cast of it. The prospectors have about 250 tons of stone on the surface, which Mr. Landseir's newly crected machine has commenced to operate upon. The shaft is only 40 feet deep, and the reef averages from 24 to 6 feet in width. A share in this claim has been sold to Mr. Spence Alsop for $400. No. 1 East. Osborne have about 120 tons on the surface. This claim is also crushing, and some anticipate that the yield will reach nearly 3 ox. to the ton. An equal half-share has been sold for £160, but at present no shares are for sale in it. Nos. 2, 3, 4, and 5 East Osborne have not yet reached the reef, and are likely to be troubled with water; still £60 has recently been given for a share in No. 2, and £10 has been refused for a share in No. 3, £70 being demanded.

In Kane a Faddock there are live payable claims, viz., Timmins Prospecting Claim, Nos. 1 upon each side of it, Williams's Prospecting Claim, son! upon cache side of it, Williams's Prospecting Claim, and a claim adjoining. No. 1 South of Timmins's Ferd have had a reaching within the last three weeks of twenty-two tons, with a result of nearly 20 oz., from a reef live fort wide, whereas the yield of the Timmins's Prospecting Claim was only 12 dwts. to the ton then the ref averaging 6 feet in width.

On the 15th instant a fresh paddock was opened by a free-selector mende Donald, a short distance from Osborne's Paddock, and several claims commenced within it. There have reached the main reef.

Two crushing machines now being at work will have the effect of causing

RUSSIA AND THE WAR.

The Eastern Budget correspondent at St. Petersburg says, writing on the 15th instant:—"The Government here has not yet declared itself on the Franco-Prussian conflict, but it has given some indication of the direction in which its sympathies tend. The semi-official Journal de St. Petersbourg, usually so reticent, pleads with extraordinary warmth in favour of Prussia, while the organs of the National party have as yet preserved almost absolute silence on the point. It appears that the foreign telegraphic agency (whose head-quarters are at Berlin), withheld all its telegrams on the subject from the private press, which got the first intelligence about the crisis from the French and German papers. This could not have been a manœuvre of the speculators on the Exchange, for the agency is entirely under the control of the Government; the object was evidently to give the Journal de St. Petersbourg a start, so as to enable it to lead public opinion in the sense desired by the authorities. This was the more necessary because of late the Russian press had manifested anything bat a friendly feeling towards Prussia; witness the famons articles of General Tadieyeff in the Exchange Gazette, in which that officer warms Russia and the whole Slavonic world against Prussia's ambitious designs. Indeed, it is not so long ago that the Moscow Gazette and the Goloss positively advocated an alliance with France; and it was only natural that the Russian Government, if, as there is every reason to believe, it has made up its mind as to the course it will adopt, should take measures for preventing its plans from being thwarted by the Russian press. Whether the newspapers of Moscow and St. Petersburg will take the hint given them through the Journal de St. Petersbourg remains to be seen. I will only add, that this paper, whose connection with the Government does not admit of the slightest doubt, instinuated, in a violent article against France, that although Prince! Leopold's candidature had been withdrawn, the Spania

PRUSSIAN TERRITORY ON THE BALTIC AND NOBTH SEA.

So much has been said in relation to military operations on the frontier and through Prussia and France generally, that the coast of the Baltic and the German Ocean have been lost sight of almost altogether. Owing to the comparative weakness of the Prussian navy, France has a powerful advantage over her adversary at sea, and is evidently preparing to avail herself of it, if we may judge by the number of iron-clads and transports that have left Cherbourg and Toulon within the past week, bound north. The Empress Eugenie has been to the former port to review in person the sailors and marines, whom she is reported to have saluted with an address that produced the greatest enthusiasm. All this preparation at Cherbourg, of which we have heard, is with a view to extensive maritime operations on the Baltic.

That portion of the coast extending from the mouth of the Emps to the north-eastern point of Schleswig is protected by a breastwork of rugged rocky islands, which form a most effectual barrier against encroachments for the greater portion of that distance. Navigation is extremely difficult and dangerous, and the only pilots to be had, who have any real knowledge of the coast and its navigable channels, are the inhabitants of these islands. A recent order of the Prussian Government has caused them all to remove from their island homes to the main land, in order that the French feet might be deprived of their assistance. About 100 miles in a north-westerly direction from Altona and Hamburg, and opnosite the Prussian Government has caused them all to remove from their island homes to the main land, in order that the French fieet might be deprived of their assistance. About 100 miles in a north-westerly direction from Altona and Hamburg, and opposite the mouth of the Elbe, lies the little island of Heigioland, about a mile long and one eighth of a mile wide, and owned by England. There is an English garrison there, and the few inhabitants are skilful pilots, and will probably be much sought after in the present need of ocean guides in the North Sea. Gluckstadt, near the mouth of the Elbe, and Altona further up the river, are both fortified.

Further north, on the Baltic shore, from Christian-feldt, in Schleswig, to Konigaberg and Polanger on the cast, fortifications have been in process of crection for some time. The strongest position next to the fortified ports of Kiel, Wilhelmswafen, Danstie, Sundevitt, and Alsen, is at Hoerup Hauf, commanding the passage of the Little Belt. Three strongly-built, iron-faced, and star-shaped forts have been placed, so that this stronghold on the Island of Alsen will command not only the Straits but the Alsenund Canal and port. Hoerup Hauf is connected with Sonderberg, which is the principal military depot of the north. These works are so far completed as to be serviceable, and will, no doubt, be heard from before long. Kiel, which has already figured once or twice in speculative items of news as about to be attacked, is situated in the north-east corner of Holstein, on the Kiel Fiord. It has a powerful fortress and surrounding forts and batteries. It communicates by rail with Gluckstadt and Hamburg. Duppel is also a splendidly fortified position, and adds materially to the strength of the coast line.

Dantzic, situated at the mouth of the Vistula, is one of the most important cities on the Baltic, and contains a population of about 76,000. Its fortifications much unproved since it fell into his uncle's hands in 1808. Even then it was a troublesome place to take, and only yielded a buyers disposed to await the news per Malta. If it was difficult to give quotations last week, it is much more so for the present one inasmuch as there is a wider margin between the values as there is a wider margin between the values placed upon goods by those who hold them and purchasers Sales of flour have been effected at a wide margin. A parcel of 54 tons of Tasmanian was placed on Wednesday at £11 15s. ne. t cash. Sydney mills sold the same day at £. 15 bags returned, and leading brands of Adelain, brought £16 10s, for bakers, parcels. Very little bas been done in wheat. The bulk of the Jolius's cargo came to millers orders, and the balance is unsold. Bulk beer remains very firm. Branches also maintain their value, very firm. Brand'es also maintain their value, Hennessy's pale, in quarter-casks, was quitted at 8s, and a similar figure has since been refused. Cornsacks and other Dundee goods have been in better request, and holders firmer. Coffee is quiet; a shipment of Tahitı offered at public sale to-day failed to find a purchaser. The news received per Californian mail has not improved the price of kerosene oil, and sales have taken place at 2s. 2d.; for trade lots 2s. 3d. and 2s. 4d. is required. There is less demand for oilmen's stores and groceries, as stocks are still heavy and the trade supplied. The war news has materially improved the value of powder, and the few parcels in first hands are held for higher prices. Sugars are without change, and the Sugar parcels in first hands are held for higher prices. Sugars are without change, and the Sugar Company's quotations unaltered. Teas move slowly, new, in bulk and sample, have been received, but scarcely any busingss has resulted. The Tekli has arrived at Melbourne with the second cargo of the season from Foochoo. THE EIGHT-HOURS' MOVEMENT

THE EIGHT-HOURS MOVEMENT.

(Fron the Sydney Mail.)

A MEETING in support of the eight-haurs' movem in was held on Widnesday, at which the various speakers advocated the importance of short hours of labour as necessary for the proper intellectual cultivation of the working classes. Mr. John Young, the contracter, spoke in favour of the movement, and deprecated the mutual antagonism of masters and men. But it must be clearly understood that there are many persons who approve of its being made compulsory by legislation. For such a law must be an unequal one, as it can only affect certain classes; and it may also be injurious by introducing the element of compulsion into matters which should be left free. To determine the rate of warges, and if that can be the duty of the State, it does not require much extension of the logic to prove that the State may also determine the profits of employers. The voluntary endurance of long toil is ascribed to cupidity, but there are many cases where those who have many dependents looking to them for bread, ascriftee their case and their hours of natural rest, not from any selfish regard, but as a duty to eithers. There are many men who lay upon themselves extra toil who do not spend the proceeds either on their backs or their bellies, but who, in the purest spirit of adlaserifice, give the proceeds of their painful labour to those who cannot care for themselves. It would be rather strange if the State should make such a labour is the world were subject to the eight hours' law, it must lass be trankly admitted that the cost of such works, so far as they depend upon the cost of labour, will be one-fifth greater. It may be very wice and right that this should be so, and that acciety should agree to tax itself for the leisure of its members, but the fact must not be shirked in the discussion. The best way to diminish the amount of rude labour in the world is to transfer the task to machines, and allot to man the superior duty of constructing and controlling those mechanical contrivas

This was a case in which there were cross demurrers (to calculation and piles). It had been already argued, and awarted judgment, when their Howons desured to hear further argument upon a point connected with the case on which a difficulty had been felt during the consideration of it by themselves. The nature of the case was teptited in the Heraid of Saturday last. The action was beauted by the assignees of Mrs. Anne Cornelious against the executors of the late Mr. E. C. close, upon certain covenants in a lease from the testator to the assignor. The stipulations were that if the lease exceeded certain buildings on the land demised (all Morpeth) the term of the lease was to be extended, and at the end of such term the buildings on the land demised (all Morpeth) the term of the lease was to be extended, and at the end of such term the buildings were to be valued, and the value paid by the leases, provided it did not exceed £400. The buildings had been creeted, the term of the lease in the principal for the amount, defendants having been called upon by plantifits to pay the amount at which the premises had been valued, had not done so. An action having been brought for the amount, defendants had ple-ded a sale of all the testator's interest in the demised land to a third person. The substantial question raised by the demurrer was whether the covenants in question raw with the land. The point upon which further argument was called for was whether the assignees of the lesser could such the executors of the lesser (or whether the property in question) or the device under the will?

Further argument having been heard between Mr. M. H. Stephen and Mr. Davies Curave.

The Rule of the Road at Sea.—In answer to a mission of cartain words from Articles 11 and 13 of the Regulations for the Prevention of Collisions at Sea, it was to meet the views of the legal authorities who decide in cases of collision that the words in question, "nearly end on, were originally inserted, in order to modify, in certain respects, the words rived on alone had been used, as it would have given rise to endless lingation if the words in one that is, that their masts were spositively in a line—whereas the expression "nearly end on "provides against this technical difficulty." My Lords, under the circumstances above stated, cannot sanction the words in question being of the Regulations. "The following is a litter from the Board of Trade, Whitchall Gardens, June 16, 1870. —Collisions.—Sur.—I am directed by the Board of Trade on the same subject:—"Thade to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 9th instant, forwarding a memorial praying for the omission of the words "or nearly end on "from Article 11 and 13 of the Regulations for the Prevention of Collisions at Sea. AWATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE THAMES.—The final heat for the Wingfield Sculls came off on the 26th July. The course from Putney to Mortlake is the longest amateur race in England, and it is considered the distance suited to test the merits of the heat gratherms sculls to the state of the course of the last gratherms and the state of the state of the state of the last gratherms and the state of the s the longest amateur race in England, and it is comsidered the distance suited to test the merits of the best genthemen scullers. It is rare that a close contest, however, results, as by the previous rowing of the year the form of the competitors is so well known that none of the regular scullers enter. The first appearance of Ross on the Thames as a sculler has been only equalled in point of quality by his paircered rowing last year at the Metroplitan Regatta, when he and Shannon made such an example of their oppenents. Since Lawes, in 1865, rowed such a spic. It is some that the merits of their oppenents. Since Lawes, in 1865, rowed such a spic. It is some the search of their oppenents. Since Lawes, in 1865, rowed such a spic. It is some the search of the supplement of the stroke makes the boat go, but in 1867 for this symbol of acquatic supremacy. In 1868 Michell showed how the beginning of the stroke makes the boat go, but in 1868, Stout had the same. Last year Long, after being defeated by Crofts at Henley, after a splendid race in the fastest time on record (nine minutes), came out beldly on the tideway to meet his victor, but, in tha end, he had a row over. This year, at Henley, hy was taken at evens against the field; but he was so beaten in his heat that there was strong evidence of his want of form, and as he was known to be a starter for the Wingfield, a great change only was to save his defeat, and from the rowing he showed up to the Point, he appears to have recovered his old form. On Monday Ross had to meet quite secondrate men. Chillingworth, though much improved this year, is not yet first-class, and Yarborough, though a thorough stayer, and one of the finest carsmen in England, is by no means a good sculler-aber strength alone makes his boat go, and then slowly. The victory of Ross on Monday was not so decisive as to make him a sure favourite for the final heat, but his speed for the first mile was so well recognised that 7 to 4 was laid on him before the son the Monday faces bear hand by far, o

The shoemakers of the United States have one of the most powerful Trade Unions in the country—the "Knights of St. Crispin," which numbers its members by tens of thousands, and is so especially strong in Massachusetts, where the shoe factories are chiefly located, that last autumn it supported a special "Labour" candidate for Governor, secured him many thousand votas, and succeeded in electing several members of the Massachusetts Legislature. A Trade Union of such strength would naturally be involved in constant troubles with its employers, especially at a time like the present, when declining prices make reduced wagea a necessity. For a year there have been in almost all the shoe manufacturing towns of Massachusetts strikes, lock-outs, and other troubles. Finally, an employer at North Adams resolved to try the experiment of coolie labour, and made a contract with the Chinese company at Kwong Chong, at San Francisco, for 75 picked labourers, who were to be men of intelligence and good character, and were to bind themselves to work three years, with the privilege of ten, the company to make up any deficiencies caused by bad behaviour or desertion. The employer, Mr. Calvin T. Sampson, is to pay each coolie 23 dollars a month for the first year, and 28 dollars a month afterwards, and their transportation expenses, is to furnish lodging and fuel for cooking, and also to pay two Chinese cooks, who are also to be "councillors" and bookkeepers for the colony. The Chinese foreman, or overseer, is furnished who has had experience of American life in California, but is unacquainted with the shoemaking, and who is to look after the men, interpret for them, and keep them up to their duties for 50 dollars monthly salary. The body of any dead Chinaman is to be sent back to the company at San Francisco for shi by no means necessarily the case, as it depends entirely on the testator's will on whom the burden of this duty falls. It is besides not sufficiently understoed that the succession to property takes place only by permission of the State, and not, as is frequently setumed, by natural or indefeasable right. Probate duty is the price which the State charges for secuting the due succession under the sanction of law. On this ground it is laid down by the highest authorities, both on law said political economy, that there is no tax sounder in principle. It should be remembered also that many exemptions have been made in cases where the tax has been thought to press hardly; thus all estates under £100 in value, effects of common seamen or soldiers who die in the service, all sums not exceeding £100 payable by a public department in respect of pay, allowances, or annuities granted under authority of Parliament, and some similar matters, are altogether exempt from duty. Notwithstanding this, the probate duty brings in no less than three and a half millions annually to the sex-hequer.

THE WAR.

ILE NAVAL EXPEDITION—DENMARK TO JOIN.

NEW YORK, August 7.

The Tribum's cable despatch from London, August 7th, says:—Our special correspondent at Cherbourg writes on Friday that the transports of the fleet will comprise no less than 320 vossels; and the preparations for its departure will still take cight days. The Government has not more than 22 ships of its own, and takes possession of all Trans-Atlantic steamers. The Expeditionary Squadron has been strengthened and will include 12 battalions of marines, each with one battery of artillery and one battalion of Turcos under Generals Redouf and Martin. The main force consists of forty thousand troops of the line, from various regiments, General Trochu being Commander-inchief. It is well-known here that Danish neutrality is only ostensible and temporary. The Danish Government cannot withstand the crithusisam with which Admiral Bovet and his squadron have been received at Copenhagen and know what are the sympathies of the people. The secret mission of Duko Cadore and the arrival of the French fleet coincide too nearly to leave any doubt of the course of events. Not many weeks, perhaps not many days, will pass before the announcement will be made of an alliance—offensive and defensive—between France and Demmark. Meantime Bovet will blockade the Baltic ports, and, when the whole squadron assembles, will bombard Hamburg, Kiel, Station, and Dantzie. A service for re-victualling and re-sumplying the fleet is to be organized at Elsinore by French edile. The Danish Government is believed to have authorized the taking of Elsinore as a base of operations—an act more significant than any declaration of alliance. Before entering the Baltic Bovet captured two gunboats at the mouth of the Elbe, and bombarded Wilholmshaven, but only to try the guns; no landing was attempted. Elseven river gunboats were sent in sections from Toulon on Tuesday to Strasburg. A new gunboat, invented by Foucey, was sent from Cherbourg to Strasburg. It is a small vessely in fact, nothing letter was closed, the greater part of the expeditionary forces were arriving.

DETAILS OF THE WISSENBURG BATTLE. The New Fork Tribune special correspondent writes from Mayence on Thursday, August 4, as follows:—

"This evening came a despatch from Wissenburg announcing the Prussian victory and occupation of that place. I have obtained the following details:—The King, on his arrival at Mayence, called a council of war and urged that the soomer the existing inaction ceased the better, and pressed an advance. His opinion was adopted, and orders were telegraphed to attack the outpots in the neighbourhood of Landau and Wissenburg. A Prussian force, composed of two line regiments one regiment of Bavarian troops and some artillery, in all about 9000 strong, drove the French before them into Wissenburg. The artillery was then brought up and opened on the fortifications of the town, which soon caught fire. Seeing this, and some confusion among the French troops, the Prussians could no longer be restrained by their officers, who were anxious to reduce the town by cannonading. The Prussians lost heavily, but took 800 prisoners and the town. The greatest enthusians provails here, and there is an immense crowd at the palace calling to cheer the King. The sandiers rushed form the citaded to the railway. They put good faces on the matter, and showed true French galeys. The large crowd received them very well, throwing packages of tobacce and cigars to their beaten foces. The large crowd received them very well, throwing packages of tobacce and cigars to their beaten foces. The large crowd received them very even solitored to retain their swords, and to be paroled on reaching Munich. The other 400 that were taken at Wissenburg were first marched from the citaded to the railway. They put good faces on the matter, and showed true French galeys. The large crowd received them very well, throwing packages of tobacce and cigars to their beaten foces. The large crowd received them very even 800 in all. As before, when and cigars wer burg went last night to Oxford. There were 800 in all. As before, wine and cigars were offered by the Germans, but the French desired to pay for everything. The privates were disarmed, but kept their bayonets, shooths, and knapaseka."

Another correspondent writes from Mayence on Tuesday that none but official telegrams will be permitted to be published for the next three days.

A special correspondent sends from Nancy, on Friday morning, the following account of the battle at Wissenberg, from the French side: "While General Douay a Division, composed of the 74th and 50th regiments of the line, the 16th battalian of Conserve on foot, one regiment of Turcos, and one regiment of mounted Chassesies, were basy yesterday in the neighbourhood of Wissenburg, they were actually startled by a terrific discharge of artillery. As the patrols, which had been posted all along the line, had not signalled the presence of any Frussian troops, the men believed for a moment that they were surrounded by the enemy. This was not the case; but the Frussians, in great force, and well supplied with artillery, appeared on the heights of Schwerger, occupying the whole country agar the small Esvarian village of that name. General Douay ordered his troops to advance before the enemy, keeping as much as possible behind Wissenburg, which hay just between them and the reasons, because the guns were pouring a tremendous fire upon them, and the troops were falling in great numbers in the village of Wissenburg itself. The French retreated from their former position, and commenced marching on the right side of the village. The Prussian guine were governed to the willing. The Frussian guine were actually in Wissenburg and in the midst of the troops. Several houses were set on fire, and a large number of soldiers lay dead or wounded. At about 11 o'clock General Vohican's division were commencing to retire. However, a new attack was ordered. The Turcos led the way, and, beyonets in hand, threw themselves on the Prussian patter says have themselves

BRUSSELS, July 20.

Last evening all the Colonels of the Gardes Civique through the kingdom met here under the presidency of General Pletineks, in order to draw up an appeal 14 the volunteers of the country. This appeal to arms has created a most painful effect, inasmuch as it comes after the National Bank had sent its cash to Antwerp, and after the King had dispatched his plate and pictures to the same stronghold. Had the country been invaded by the enemy, the panie and the constrenation now prevailing through the whole kingdom could not be more intense. The volunteers will be armed with Albini guns, and will receive field pay.

"Sir,—I am instructed by the committee and other members of the Western District Pastoral and Agricultural Society to convey to you, on behalf of that society, including the principal woolgrowers of Victoria, their sincere thanks for your strenuous entertions on their behalf in connection with the sale of wool in London. The reduction of commission and brokerage from $\frac{1}{2}$ to $2$ per cent. is mainly to be attributed to your efforts, and there is also the prospect of further improvements being effected. I have to explain that these views would have been adopted more publicly by the society at their annual meeting, at Skipton, on the 8th instant, if it had not been for extraordinary flood which made it impossible for us to act in concert. It was proposed, however, in order to carry out the improvements which you have originated, that a general meeting of all parties interested should be held in Melbourne after shearing for the purpose of constituting an association here, which should not only attend to our interest in the colony, but should also provide for its representation in London by gentlemen acting in the interests of veologrocers, as accumbers of a joint committee, representing all interests in England, which might be reconstituted on a settled basis. As you are about to return to England, we feel confident of your continued interest in our welfare, and in the meantime we will esteem it a favour if you give us your advice as to the best mode of effecting the objects we have in view.

The Dram of Exerge and the Dissenters.—Our Exerter correspondent writes that the Dean has become extremely unpopular with the Dissenters of that city. At a meeting at Newton Abbot the other day, speaking on the Education question he said he did not think the present movement was started really so much to promote the Dissenting interest. He therefore, felt pursuaded that the battle was really between the Church of England on the one side and the Nonconformists on the other. At a subsequent meeting at Exeter he repeated what he had said at Newton, but stated that he exonerated the Wesleyans. On Sunday the Dean preached at the cathedral, and in the course of his sermon he proceeded to dispute the right of unordained Christians to assume the ministerial office, first on the ground of possible ignorance, which was a very serious matter in these days. It was important, also, that a man should be placed under authority. If a minister of the Church of England erred, there was an authority to which appeal might be made, but this was not so in the case of Dissenting ministers. Then look, said the Dean, in conclusion, at the spheres in which these self-constituted ministers work—they do not go into the out-of-theway places—they stick to the crowded city, the fashionable congregation, and leave those who most want help to provide for themselves.—Pall Mall Gazette.

TITLE unquestionable. TERMS at Sale.

RAYNES, TREEVE, and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at MORTS ROOMS, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 28th September, Those 2 CHOICE FARMS, each containing 60 acres, more or less, situate at the KURRYJONG, and well known as the early selection of Messra. John and James Frontegrast.

The auctioneers would direct the especial attention of those in search of a retreat from the enervasting heat of the city to the sale of these really valuable farms, situate in the midst of the grand and romantie seenery of the famed district of the KURRYJONG: they combine all the essentials for restoring health to the invalid, whilst their proximity to Sydney, with the easy access now existing, places them within reach of the business-man, who, by a small outlay, might secure a summer retreat for himself and family at a very small cost. The land is of excellent quality, and has an abundance of the finest timber rowing on it, and the instructions are POSITIVE to effect a sale, in order to close a trust estate.

SEVEN FEET SEAM RUNNING THROUGH, a continuation of the Mount Keera and Mount Pleusant seams, the latter mine with tranway to the harbour, being on the edge of one of the boundaries.
Mining and coal engineers estimate, after allowing onefect seam will yield OVER 7000 TONS of SALEABLE COAL, which rate, taking the minimum area and minimum estimated yield, will give the enormous return of 3,500,000 TONS OF MARKETABLE COAL obtainable from this seam alone.
In addition to the seven feet seam, there are OTHER RICH SEAMS workable, some of them nearly equal in thickness, so that it is NO EXAGGERATION TO STATE that the COAL ON THE PROPERTY IS INEXHAUSTABLE.
The royalty paid by the coal companies in the locality is one shilling per ton. This is considered by competent authorities, and from actual experience, a reasonable and fair charge, as the coal, from the natural advantages of the position and its preximity to a good harbour, cas be advantageously and economically worked, centrasting favourably with the more difficult and expensive asture of the works at the Newcastle mines.
A trial mine has been opened, and the coal found quite equal to that produced from the mines now at work in the district.
The Belmore Dock, at Wollongong, can be reached by

of the works at the Newcastle raines.

A trial mine has been opened, and the coal found quits equal to that produced from the mines now at work in the edistrict.

The Belmore Dock, at Wollongong, can be reached by a tramway about three miles in length. This from one position on the property could be formed, at a comparatively small expense, over a nearly level road, neither cuttings or bridges of any extent being required. Every facility for loading vossels is obtainable at the dock, the present coal statish being capable of shipping fully 2000 tons per day.

Portion 3, 37 acres, on the coast, described above, is situated about half-a-mile from the harbour, and in the direct course of a transvay from Balgownie. This piece of land would form an edmirable depot for storing coal in the waggons waiting shipment.

But a very faint outline can be given within the limits of an advertisement of the great value and importance of this extensive valuable estate. It is only necessary to add the instructions of the mortgages, which are peremptory, to effect an absolute sale. That an immense forttine must be realized out of the property by the purchaser, no one at all acquainted with its value will for a moment doubt; and if at present it is not knownt desirable to work the nearly unlimited coal-beds, a considerable return on the investment is obtainable from tenants of the agricultural and dairy farms, which always, from their position, socure good and permanent tenants.

Further particulars may be obtained, and plans of the roperty inspected at the Rooms, Pitt-street, Sydney. Title unquestionable,—All information respecting the same can be obtained on application to W. W. BILL-YARD, Esq., Solicitor, Hunter-street.

Terms at Sale.

WANT and SIMPSON have received instructions from the Directors of the Moruya Silver Mining Company to sell by public auction, at these Sale Rooms, The Pastoral Exchange, No. 271, Georgestreet, at 11 o'clock, on MONDAY, the 24th October,

That valuable and extensive mineral property known as THE MORUYA MINE, situated as above, being only ABOUT 3 MILES from the township of MORUYA, and having the advantage of close proximity to

at a very moderate cost, to Sydney, for all ores that may be raised for shipment to England or elsewhore. The land presents peculiar advantages for the ERECTION of FURNACES, which would thus enable the purchaser to reduce the ores on the spot, and at VERY MODERATE COST, from the fact that abundance of timber is upon the Company's land.

With the MORUYA SILVER MINE will be sold all the MACHINERY and PLANT now upon the ground, consisting of a first-class WINDING and PUMPING ENGINE of 20-horse power, made by Messra. P. N. RUSSELL and CO., with boiler and all fittings complete, and in the most perfect order; and PUMP WORK, MINING, and BLACKSMITHS TOOLS, FORGES, and every requisite for carrying on the operations without delay, and with only such outlay as may be necessary to start the works; together with the EULLDINGS, HUTS, WORKSHOPS, &c., &c.

The ASSAYS OF THE ORES, made by the Branch of the Royal Mint here, and other assayists, have shown that they contain precious metals as follows, varying thus:

GOLD, from thas to 2 ounces to the ton of ore such as a such contain precious metals as follows, varying thus:

Johnson, Matthey, and Co., of London, gave the following returns:

SILVER, from 9 to 29 ounces to the ton of ore GOLD, from 4ths to 2 ounces to the ton of ore.

GOLD, from 4ths to 2 ounces to the ton of ore.

GOLD, from 4ths to 2 ounces to the ton of ore.

THE LODE has been traced and opened in several places along its course. It is known to extend from north to south of the Company's Lossehold Land, and according to the report last received from the Mining Captain, its extent is width is from 1 to 3 feet.

A large portion of the open ground is ready for stoping, and a very large quantity of ores can be raised at very trifling cost.

SEVERAL RICH REEFS are known to exist upon the land, but have not yet been properly tested.

A GOOD FIELD now presents itself for investment by any company possessed of MODERATE CAPITAL to carry on the works already commenced, the chief difficulties having been overcomes and there is a FINE PLANT and MACHINERY on the ground to recommence the working of the Mine.

The Auctioneers particularly invite the attention of SPECULATORS, CAPITALISTS, and OTHERS who may be desirous of investing in this kind of property, and sequiring a MOST VALUABLE MIME, to the amount that has been expended in opening it up, and bringing the whole into thorough working order, so that operations may be resumed forthwith.

The sole object in selling is the insufficiency of capital te continue working, that subscribed by the shareholdors having been exhausted.

AN INVENTORY of the whole of the MACHINERY, PLANT, TOOLS, &c., may be seen at the Rooms of the Auctioneers.
